

SUMMARY OF HSOS RESEARCH FINDINGS

Evaluations of our workshops have yielded a great deal of insight regarding the effectiveness of A Head Start on Science professional development. And while internal evaluation has been a routine part of the project, we have also supported the development and dissemination of research assessing the project's effectiveness. This report summarizes the findings of the research and discusses the implications for Head Start on Science.

skills, performing much better than the students of participating teachers in tests of scientific concepts and reasoning (Van Egeren et al., 2007).

REFERENCES

Straits, W. J., Casillan, R., and Ritz, W. C. (2014, December). "A Head Start on Science" Professional Development Workshops. Presented at the western regional meeting of the Association for Science Teacher Education. Long Beach, CA.

Van Egeren, L. A., Watson, D., Morris, B., and Farrand, M. (2007, February). Creating School Readiness through Early Childhood Science Education: Evaluation of Head Start on Science. University Outreach & Engagement, Michigan State University, East Lansing, MI.

Von Blum, R. (1998). A Head Start on Science - Final Evaluation. National Center for Science in Early Childhood, California State University Long Beach, Long Beach, CA.

Von Blum, R. (2003). National Dissemination of A Head Start on Science - Final Evaluation Report. National Center for Science in Early Childhood, California State University Long Beach, Long Beach, CA.