Nouns

Overview: A noun is a person, place, or thing, and often functions as the subject or object of a sentence. When a noun acts as the subject, it performs the action in the sentence. When a noun acts as the object, it receives the action in the sentence. Nouns have specific classifications, and they can be either singular or plural

Proper nouns name specific people, places, or things, and are usually capitalized. Proper nouns do not require an article (a, an or the).

Examples:

- 1) Sally
